Employees are strongly urged to discuss with supervisors, managers or other appropriate personnel, when in doubt, the best course of action in a particular situation.

Purpose:

The purpose of this policy is to encourage all employees, external third parties and the general public to disclose any wrongdoing or apparent wrongdoing regarding accounting, internal accounting controls or auditing matters that may affect the Company, the Company’s customers, shareholders, employees, investors, or the public in general. This policy also outlines the procedures for filing a complaint, how a complaint is investigated and the criteria used to evaluate a complaint.

Definitions:

For purposes of this policy:

- (1) Good Faith. Good faith is evident when the complaint is made without malice or consideration of personal benefit and the individual(s) has a reasonable basis to believe that the complaint is true; provided, however, a complaint does not have to be proven to be true to be made in good faith. Good faith is lacking when the disclosure is known to be malicious or false.
- (2) Wrongdoing. Examples of wrongdoing include, but are not limited to, financial fraud and accounting fraud, knowing violation of laws and regulations regarding accounting, internal accounting controls or auditing matters.
- (3) Adverse Employment Action. Examples of adverse employment action include, but are not limited to, demotion, suspension, termination, transfer to a lesser position, denial of promotions, denial of benefits, threats, harassment or denial of compensation as a result of an employee’s report of wrongdoing, or any manner of discrimination against an employee in the terms and conditions of employment because of any lawful act done by an employee pursuant to this policy.

Procedures:*A. General Guidance

This policy presumes that individuals will act in good faith and will not make false accusations when reporting wrongdoing. An individual who knowingly or recklessly makes statements or disclosures that are not in good faith may be subject to discipline, which may include termination in the case of an employee.

B. Commitment of Audit Committee with Respect to Specified Complaints

1. Under securities laws and regulations, the Audit Committee will receive, retain, investigate and act on complaints and concerns of individuals regarding questionable accounting practices, breaches in internal accounting controls and other accounting, financial reporting or auditing matters.
2. At the discretion of the Audit Committee, responsibilities of the Audit Committee created by these procedures may be delegated to any member of the Audit Committee or to a subcommittee of the Audit Committee.

C. Procedures for Receiving an Allegation of Wrongdoing

1. Any allegation of wrongdoing that is made directly to management, whether openly, confidentially or anonymously, will be promptly reported to the Chair of the Audit Committee.
2. Each allegation forwarded to the Chair of the Audit Committee, by management and each allegation that is made direct to the Audit Committee, whether openly, confidentially or anonymously, will be reviewed by the Audit Committee, who may, at their discretion, consult with any member of management or employee whom they believe would have appropriate expertise or information to assist the Audit Committee. The Audit Committee will determine whether the Audit Committee or management should investigate the allegation, taking into account the considerations set forth in Section D below.
  - (a) If the Audit Committee determines that management should investigate the allegation, the Audit Committee will notify the Board of Directors in writing of that conclusion. Management will thereafter promptly investigate the allegation and will report the results of its investigation, in writing, to the Audit Committee. Management will be free in its discretion to engage outside auditors, counsel or other experts to assist in the investigation and in the analysis of results.
  - (b) If the Audit Committee determines that it should investigate the allegation, the Audit Committee will promptly determine what professional assistance, if any, it needs in order to conduct the investigation. The Audit Committee will be free in its discretion to engage outside auditors, counsel or other experts to assist in the investigation and in the analysis of results.

D. Considerations Regarding the Decision to Investigate

In determining whether management or the Audit Committee should investigate an allegation of wrongdoing, the Audit Committee will consider, among other factors that are appropriate under the circumstances, the following:

- (a) The identity of the alleged wrongdoer.

- (c) The credibility of the allegation of wrongdoing.

The Company will not tolerate any effort by any other employee or employee group, to ascertain the identity of any person who makes a good faith allegation anonymously.

Consistent with the policies of the Company, the Audit Committee will not retaliate, and will not tolerate any retaliation by management or any other employee or employee group, directly or indirectly, against anyone who, in good faith, makes an allegation of wrongdoing or provides assistance to the Audit Committee, management or any other person or group, including any governmental, regulatory or law enforcement body, investigating such an allegation.
